

The ETAL Rabbits

ement
book | The Journey Northeast

by Chris

The Elemental Rabbits

Book 1: The Journey North East

By Chris

Chapter I

The Evil Hawk

One day in year 105,972,999, a black hawk appeared in a galaxy far, far away. The hawk was the size of a house that you live in and is really evil. When the hawk flew away, this Holland lop rabbit with shiny blue eyes named Hyperthys found some baby rabbits in his hole. "Where am I? I guess I will have to explore the island to find out!" said Hyperthys. Hyperthys weighs only 1.5 pounds because he is really undersized.

Hyperthys just kept the baby rabbits and raised them. The next day Hyperthys did not see the hawk, but he saw a Dutch rabbit named Cremis, who has light colored red eyes and weighs 4 pounds. Cremis was waiting for him outside his hole.

Cremis was having a discussion with Hyperthys for an hour. The discussion was about the Hawk of Destruction. Cremis told Hyperthys that he also saw the giant hawk fly over his hole. He even saw the hawk shoot elemental blasts everywhere which destroyed his hole and turned it into a wasteland of rock.

Later that day Hyperthys introduced Cremis to the baby rabbits in his hole and fed them carrots. Hyperthys and Cremis also decided to train for the next six months to learn fighting moves like spitting ice shards. The first step of their training was to make an order of what to learn first.

On their first day they learned how to fight in combat. It was hard work to train, but they did their best. They learned very basic combat skills, just enough to actually battle. The hawk was not seen for another week. Every day for the next two months, their goal was to train five hours each day.

Chapter II

Let the Training Begin

The next week while Hyperthys and Cremis were training they saw the hawk fly over them. When they did, they hid back into their hole. “Shoot him!” said Cremis.

“Can you see that I don’t have anything to shoot him with?!” “The only thing we can do is hide until the Hawk of Destruction goes away.” Hyperthys and Cremis got lucky because the hawk didn’t look closely at the ground, so it couldn’t see them. They only had to wait 7 seconds before the hawk flew off the island. After that, they went back to achieving their goal of training for two months. They had to get extra sleep because they were doing so much physical work.

Since they eventually wanted to see the Rabbit King, they decided to train on the mountain. They first chose a place on the mountain pretty low to start training.

On their last day of training they went up the mountain to see the Rabbit King with the six month-old adult rabbits who had come to Hyperthys months ago. They went through many moors and tall grass for the first 418,000 feet. Eventually they ran into a wasteland of rock that lasted for the next 282,000 feet. They wished that the wasteland of rock could be replaced with low grass because they didn’t like the rock, because it was hard and hurt their feet. They definitely didn’t want the tall grass, because when they had gone through, it had been very hard to see though all the tall grass in the moors. They only could see five feet around them.

They even heard a volcano on the other side of the mountain erupt after traveling another 12,000 yards. The explosion ended up destroying the ice at the top of the mountain. Hyperthys, Cremis, and the adult rabbits ended up getting tired at 9:00pm, so they made a hole.

Chapter III

The Rabbit King

At 9:27 a.m., Hyperthys and Cremis woke up and started hiking again. When Hyperthys, Cremis, and the adult rabbits reached 850,000 feet they took shelter from the heat in a hole and ate 10 carrots.

At 1:00 p.m. Hyperthys went out of the hole by himself and met a Netherland dwarf rabbit waiting for him named Phoceanus. Phoceanus has bright green eyes and weighs 2.5 pounds. Phoceanus told him that he also saw the hawk and was looking for the Rabbit King.

At 4:00 p.m. Cremis came out of the hole and saw Hyperthys and Phoceanus. "Why are you even here Cremis?" asked Phoceanus. "You should be at the volcano right now which is on the other side of this mountain."

"I'm here because that evil hawk of destruction had to turn my hole into a wasteland of rock by destroying my hole," answered Cremis.

"Why don't we hurry up and get going to find the Rabbit King?" said Phoceanus. It took Hyperthys, Cremis, Phoceanus, and the adult rabbits another hour to reach the top of the mountain. When they got there, they found out that the Rabbit King weighs 7 pounds and has brown eyes. The Rabbit King told them that the hawk was destroying everything on the island of Rarth. He also told them that there is one Power Carrot and a dragon egg in every kingdom. He gave them a map to help their quest to defeat the evil hawk. Before the team left, the Rabbit King gave them the Elemental Crystal. "What is this crystal for?" asked the adult rabbits.

"I don't know" said the Rabbit King. "I found this in an ancient temple that the hawk already blew up. I remember the temple was called Skyshroud temple. It's on an island nearby, but the hawk completely destroyed it. There is also a temple in Heaven called the Temple of the Titans. Just continue adventuring. You might find out later what the crystal is for. Pay revenge to that evil hawk that ruined this island."

On their way down the mountain they had to hop across a volcano that was about to erupt. It was no problem because the wind blew all of the lava into the Water Kingdom and created a small, rocky island with no life at all. They went across a giant plain when they were traveling to the Water Kingdom. The plain had more trees than they expected.

Chapter IV

The Water Kingdom

The next day Hyperthys, Cremis, Phoceanus, and the adult rabbits headed northeast towards the Water Kingdom, anxious to find their first egg and Power Carrot. On their way they met a rabbit named Eldin who is a Mini Lop with brown eyes and weighs 4 pounds. But only five seconds after they met Eldin, they were attacked by two fang tooth, which are water aliens.

"How about this?" suggested Hyperthys. "Cremis and I will attack the one on the left, and you two attack the one on the right. The adult rabbits will just do nothing." It did not take Hyperthys, Cremis, Phoceanus, and Eldin long to defeat the two fang tooth.

Suddenly, they ran into a map of Death Island. Then, they ran into a sign. The sign read: The Water Dragon egg and the power carrot of Water at the bottom of the kingdom.

"Excellent!" said one of the adult rabbits. They looked at the map of Death Island and saw that Death Island is bigger than Rarth. "If we raise our Water Dragon well it can fly for us and help defeat enemies!"

"No time to waste!" said Phoceanus. As soon as they reached the kingdom they dived in with the adult rabbits. They had no idea how hard it is to find an elemental dragon egg of a Water Dragon. It was their first time swimming, so they could not swim fast but they did know how to hold their breath for unlimited time. It took them one hour to figure out how to swim fast. After another hour, they reached the bottom of the kingdom.

Chapter V

The Water Dragon Egg and the Power Carrot of Water

At the bottom of the kingdom, the team looked around very carefully for several hours. Eventually, they gave up. But, as they were leaving, Phoceanus yelled out, "I found it!" Everyone looked surprised, but they actually believed him.

"You did find it," said Hyperthys. The Power Carrot was much bigger than Hyperthys expected.

"These carrots are sure big," commented one of the adult rabbits.

"Good," said Cremis. "This dragon is a ranged fighter and the egg is already one minute away from hatching!!!"

The millisecond Hyperthys's eye came out of the water, the Water Dragon flew out of its egg. "Wow!" said Eldin. "This dragon can already fly!"

"Let's eat this Power Carrot!" said Hyperthys. Then, the dragon flew them to a shadow cloud in one tenth of a second. Instantly the cloud turned into a giant hawk. The baby Water Dragon hit its underside, Hyperthys grabbed the back of its neck so it can't fly, and the others including the adult rabbits started to taunt it. "Hit the hawk from underneath to do extra damage! Once we do that, the dragon will breathe water at the hawk." At one point, the Water Dragon shot high pressure water at the hawk's eyes.

All the high pressure water did was make the hawk very mad. Eventually, Hyperthys got swallowed by the hawk. The Water Dragon kept hitting the hawk's underside to damage it and try to get Hyperthys out. But all the hits only took down 4% of the hawk's health.

The next minute Hyperthys blew up the hawk from the inside by casting fire walls. The explosion was as big as the size of two dragons combined. It was much bigger than Hyperthys expected.

Chapter VI

The Realm of Crius

When the hawk got blown up Cremis picked up something it had dropped. It read: Realm Breaker of Crius. "Great!" cheered Hyperthys. "We have found our first Realm Breaker! Fly us to the Realm of Crius!" In one second, they were at the realm of Crius.

"Hey, I have an announcement. How the heck do we use this Realm Breaker?" announced Cremis.

"How should we know." said Eldin. Eldin looked around for a while but after one minute, he saw a sign. The sign read: Throw Realm Breakers in realms to destroy them. 200miles until you reach the stone kingdom.

"Great!" said the adult rabbits as they threw the Realm Breaker in.

"Come on," said Hyperthys. "It takes five days to destroy this realm. We're going to be stuck here for five days."

"Why can't we train in a hole for five days?" suggested Cremis.

"Good idea!" commented Phoceanus. Hyperthys ordered to find carrots to eat and hay for the nest. Cremis set up the training arena as a big hole. Phoceanus set up the nest. Eldin and the adult rabbits dug holes. On their fifth day, they realized their Water Dragon had grown. At last it mastered flying, swimming and, water blasts.

"Now our Water Dragon only needs to master its abilities." said Hyperthys. After another day, the team looked up and saw that the realm was destroyed. They continued training because they were behind. The next step was to take their elemental spells to the next level.

Chapter VII

The Stone Kingdom

The next month Hyperthys, Cremis, Phoceanus, Eldin and the adult rabbits took a journey northeast 200 miles until they reached the Stone Kingdom. On their way they met two rabbits named Roeus and Faron who are both American Fuzzy Lops. Apparently, Roeus has light blue eyes and Faron has dark green eyes. They both had an unknown weight and were riding a fully grown Great dragon. "Great Dragons don't know abilities," said Faron. "But every other dragon can master at least three when it is fully grown."

"Our Water Dragon already knows three abilities," said the adult rabbits. "It knows the skills: Tidal Wave that makes a giant tsunami, Fang tooth Summon that creates fang tooth, and Water of Range which increases its range for 10 seconds."

One nanosecond later they reached the Stone Kingdom. Then they were attacked by one arctic leviathan, five lava jaws, and 21 longbow hawks. While Hyperthys and Cremis were fighting the arctic leviathan, Hyperthys rode on the water dragon and made it use the fang tooth summon ability.

Instantly, 100 Fang tooth dived into a tidal wave. Water always beats fire for the lava jaws so it was no use for them to shoot lava. The 100 Fang tooth were able to defeat every single enemy. "Good," said Hyperthys, "now let's start looking for the stone dragon egg and the power carrot of earth. It looks like a round boulder covered with a little bit of moss."

Roeus and Faron were surprised of how the others could find the dragon egg. "How the heck did you find that egg?" asked Roeus and Faron.

"We just did," said Cremis.

"But..."

"If we keep looking I'll be much faster," said one of the adult rabbits.

Everyone looked around for hours. After looking around for three hours, the crew finally found the Stone Dragon egg and the Power Carrot of Earth. They were at the top of one of the most hidden hills in the center of the Stone Kingdom.

Chapter VIII

The Fire Kingdom

After the team found the egg and ate the Power Carrot, the team decided to come up with a name for itself. It only took one millisecond to think of a team name: Rabbit Warriors. The Rabbit Warriors had to wait 2 hours for the stone dragon egg to hatch.

After taking a journey 173 miles north they got extremely hot because they were getting closer to the Fire Kingdom. "As soon as we find this egg and this carrot we'll leave!" said Phoceanus.

"How about this?" said Faron telling the dragons. "You three go find the egg and the Power Carrot." As soon as Faron said that, the dragons flew as fast as they could into the very center of the Fire Kingdom. Even the dragons thought it was very hot.

The very center of the Fire Kingdom was 250 Celsius so all the dragons got set on fire except the Stone Dragon. Meanwhile, the rest of the team was attacked by an army of 300 lava jaws. "This will be harder without our dragons," said Roeus.

"Hit them from behind!" said Faron.

"If you attack them from the front they'll shoot molten lava all over your face," warned Eldin. As soon as Eldin said that to the crew, Hyperthys, Cremis, Phoceanus and, the adult rabbits saw the dragons coming back. "This will be easy with our dragons!" said Eldin. At one point 12 lava jaws shot molten lava on Hyperthys's face, which pretty much did nothing because Hyperthys used an ability called the elemental shield.

Hyperthys loved to grab their tails and throw them into each other, especially when the one Hyperthys is throwing at shoots molten lava. The adult rabbits weren't very strong yet, so they kept attacking the lava jaws when the others were distracting them. Eventually, the dragons arrived; they had the egg and the Power Carrot. After that, the Rabbit Warriors ate the power carrot and waited until the Fire Dragon egg hatched.

Chapter IX

The Wind Kingdom

Soon after the Rabbit Warriors defeated that army of lava jaws they saw an endless sight of small cliffs. Each cliff was 10ft. by 10 ft. And the exact moment they landed on one of those cliffs, the weather turned very foggy, and very windy. Everyone including the dragons thought it is pretty cold mainly because of the wind.

“The wind is so strong I’m going fall off,” said Faron.

“All right,” said Cremis, “how about the Stone Dragon causes giant boulders to fall and block the wind?” Even though the Stone Dragon tried to do the best it could to block the wind, it did not make a single difference in the wind speed. All it did was break up some cliffs which gave the rabbits less space to land.

Later, the entire team was tired. The problem was that they can't make holes on the cliffs because they're too small to build holes. So all they could do was rest on the cold and windy cliffs.

In the night it was freezing, so the rabbits came out and started training in order to warm up so they wouldn't freeze to death. At 7:00 a.m. it turned pretty warm so the Rabbit Warriors stopped training. After another hour it turned even warmer, so the Rabbit Warriors continued on their journey to the end of the wind kingdom. It was very tough to jump though those cliffs because the wind was so strong. Sometimes, the adult rabbits can't jump through the wind so they get blown back.

Chapter X Surrounded

After Jumping through another 66,666 cliffs, they saw a floating egg that could fly. It can fly at the speed of 131,313 miles per hour. Most of the time, it flies at the speed of 44,444 miles per hour.

Roeus quickly jumped as high as he could to grab the egg. All of a sudden the egg cracked open. He nearly missed the egg because it flew so fast. What Cremis saw that came out of the egg was a damaged baby Wind Dragon. "What happened to the Wind Dragon?" said Cremis.

"It definitely got hurt by some creepy monsters while it was in the egg," said the adult rabbits.

"Then why don't we take the Wind Dragon and heal it?" suggested Phoceanus. Everyone also saw the Power Carrot of Wind flying away.

"Try to jump to catch the Power Carrot of Wind before it flies away," said Cremis. Everyone kept jumping as high as they could to catch it. It took the crew another 12 seconds to catch the Power Carrot of Wind. By the time they caught the elusive elemental object, it had nearly gotten away. So the second the crew had hold of it, they ate it. When they finished healing the Wind Dragon, they kept adventuring.

The next hour, the Rabbit Warriors kept hopping though the Wind Kingdom. The trip wasn't bad. They went as fast as they could to travel quickly. The next second they saw the sky turn dark. They saw fang tooth, granite ogres, and lava jaws, and banshees drop out of the sky and surround them, forming an army. They also saw the giant hawk fly out of nowhere. "Ha ha ha!!!" said the hawk, "last time when Hyperthys blew me up, one molecule of my body was left and I regenerated back!"

"Then how do we defeat you!?" said Faron.

"You don't!" laughed the hawk. "Plus, every time when you defeat me and I regenerate back, my power level multiplies by ten!!!"

"No, we must find some way to vaporize every molecule of the hawk!"

No one had any plan of what to do when the army was just five feet away. And the hawk kept laughing to intimidate them. "We have got to think of a plan," said the adult rabbits.

To be continued...